A Message from Our CEO

Dear Friends,

Welcome to the 2025 World AIDS Day Concert, presented by ViiV Healthcare. Tonight, we gather not only to celebrate music, but to honor the strength, courage, and resilience of a community that has refused to give up and continues to lead us toward an end to the HIV epidemic.

World AIDS Day has always been a moment of remembrance and reflection. We remember the lives lost, the loved ones who paved the way for progress, and the heroes who still fight every day, in clinics, in communities, and in homes across the nation. But it's also a day of renewal, a reminder of how far we've come and the hope that drives us forward.

At CAN Community Health, our values are rooted in compassion, community, and care. Every test administered, every patient cared for, and every barrier broken brings us closer to a future free from stigma and full of wellness. This concert is our way of saying thank you to our patients, our providers, and partners, and our community for standing with us in this work.

Music has the power to heal, inspire, and to unite us. Tonight's performance is a celebration of that power, a tribute to the voices that have carried our movement and the harmony we create when we come together with purpose.

On behalf of everyone at CAN Community Health, thank you for joining us. Your presence tonight helps sustain the programs, care, and advocacy that empower wellness for all.

Together, we can, and we will, end the epidemic.

With gratitude,

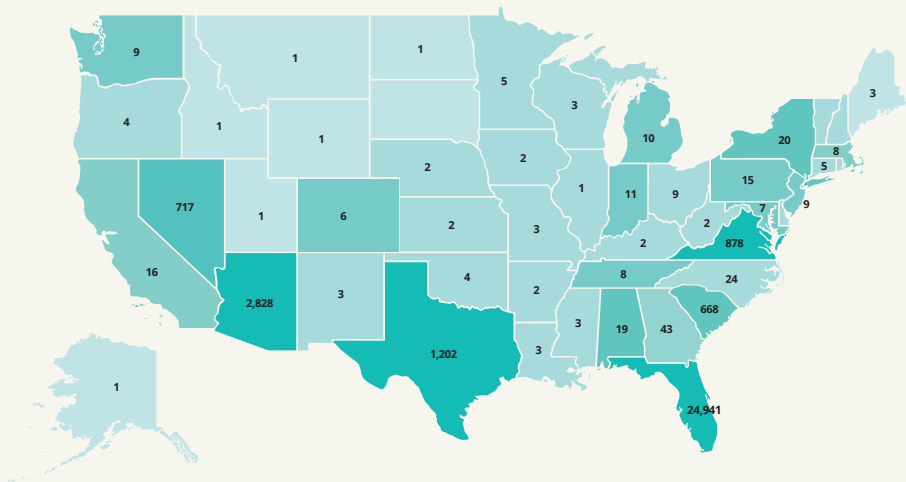

Rishi Patel, PharmD, MBA

Message from Mayor Dean Trantalis

Dear Friends,

Each year, World AIDS Day calls upon us to reflect, to honor, and most importantly, to act. It is a time to remember those we have lost, celebrate the strides we've made, and recommit ourselves to a future free from stigma, fear, and injustice.

Here in Fort Lauderdale, we are proud to stand as a community rooted in compassion and resilience. Our journey through the HIV/AIDS epidemic has been shaped by courageous advocates, compassionate caregivers, and visionary organizations like CAN Community Health, whose unwavering commitment over the past 30 years has ensured that care is delivered with dignity, understanding, and equity.

From mobile outreach and telehealth to housing support and mental health services, CAN is not just providing care, it is transforming lives. Their work reminds us that healthcare is not merely a service, but a shared responsibility grounded in empathy and human connection.

As we gather for day of unity, let us remember that the fight to end HIV/AIDS is not only a medical mission, but also a moral one. Together, with purpose, we can create a future where every person is seen, heard, and supported.

Thank you to CAN Community Health for your enduring leadership and to every voice lifting us toward progress. The City of Fort Lauderdale is proud to be part of this Important event.

Sincerely,

Dean Trantalis
Mayor

Message from Mayor Jane Castor

Greetings,

It gives me pleasure in welcoming you to the CAN Community Health World AIDS Day Concert on Monday, December 1, 2025, held at CAN Headquarters in Tampa, Florida.

Featuring the theme No Day But Today, this special event is in recognition of World AIDS Day 2025 and is not only a celebration, but a call to action and an awareness campaign that educates, advocates, and supports those affected.

The concert features performances by Adam Pascal and Anthony Rapp, original stars of Broadway's RENT production, and proceeds benefit the newly launched Susan Terry Foundation. Appreciation is extended to the CAN Community Health organization, guest performers, activists, and supporters for ensuring a memorable time.

World AIDS Day was first celebrated on December 1, 1988, to bring awareness about the HIV/AIDS (Human Immunodeficiency Virus/Acquired Immunodeficiency Syndrome) epidemic, to show support for people living with HIV, and commemorate those who have died from the disease. The official 2025 World AIDS Day theme is "Overcoming disruption, transforming the AIDS response" and its purpose includes building momentum and a shared global narrative for resilience, innovation, and collaboration to end the AIDS epidemic.

Established in 1991, CAN Community Health motto is Empowering Wellness in Tampa, and is an outreach organization that includes mobile clinics, telehealth services, and community-based programs. The commitment to break down barriers to access, especially for underserved populations, and to equity and inclusivity that ensures LGBTQ+ individuals, and those facing economic hardship receive culturally competent care and advocacy.

Again, welcome and my best wishes for an enjoyable and inspirational time.

Sincerely,

Jane Castor
Mayor

ALL IN WITH THE COMMUNITY

WE ARE ALL IN THIS TOGETHER.

It takes determination, persistence, and passion to create meaningful change in HIV. It takes him and her and them and us. All working together as one. That's why we are standing strong with the community to tackle the challenges that are getting in the way of making progress in HIV. As a community, we are working to combat stigma, educate, and motivate people to get tested, learn about HIV treatment and prevention options, and get connected to care. It takes all of this and all of us working together to end the HIV epidemic for everyone, everywhere.
